ANNUAL FOUNDATION HOLIDAY DINNER Honoring Outgoing and Incoming Foundation Board Members

The McLennan Community College Foundation held its annual holiday dinner on December 2 at McLennan's Conference Center. Guests were entertained in a holiday atmosphere by McLennan vocal students, who were led by professors Gail G. Wade and Lise Uhl. Students performed two selections from the upcoming opera "The Emperor's New Clothes," as well as a few holiday favorites. Guests enjoyed a decadent buffet prepared by Great Western Catering prior to the entertainment and a brief program.

Foundation executive director Harry Harelik kicked off the evening by reminding guests of the accomplishments of the MCC Foundation over the past year, which included the receipt of a $1.8 million bequest, the largest bequest in McLennan's history, from the late Mrs. Iris Jeffress. Mr. Harelik acknowledged and thanked the dedicated staff of the Foundation: Jana Bland, Shelley

Cotten, Rose DeLeon, Nancy Neill and Cloddy Williams. In addition, he recognized outgoing Board Chair Mike Bidwell, as well as outgoing Board members K. Paul Holt, Ann Roznovsky and Lisa Sheldon. He thanked these special individuals for their commitment to the MCC Foundation and the future of McLennan Community College and its students.

Mr. Harelik also introduced the incoming 2015 Board Chair Nelwyn Reagan and incoming members Randy Cox, Judge Rex Davis, Nashim Hamilton and Ellie Morrison, who met the following day on December 3 for an orientation. We warmly welcome these new board members who, with the company of our 22 other board members, will carry our organization forward through a very exciting 25th year for the McLennan Community College Foundation.

ALUMNI and FRIENDS ASSOCIATION

McLennan Community College • Waco, Texas

Alumni Spotlight

It started in 2006. Harry Harelik, collaborating with the Bernard & Audre Rapoport Foundation, envisioned a program to assist students whose families have no college experience. This vision led to the creation of the Bernard & Audre Rapoport McLennan Community College First Generation Scholars Program, a program that selects 12-15 first generation students each year. That same year during a class at AJ Moore Academy of Waco ISD, Denise Rodriguez listened intently as a representative from McLennan spoke of the various programs and opportunities available, including the new program for first generation students. Upon her graduation from AJ Moore in 2006, Denise Rodriguez was selected to be a part of the First Gen program's inaugural year.

"I am grateful for all of the wonderful experiences I had with the First Generation program," says Denise (pictured left). "Not only was I given the opportunity to further my education with this program — something I did not believe was possible — but I also met wonderful mentors at MCC." Denise credits the First Gen program and her mentors for her success in completing her Associate of Arts in Business and continuing her education at McLennan's University Center, where she received her Bachelor of Business Administration with Summa Cum Laude honors from the University of Texas at Arlington. Denise believes McLennan provided her with the foundation needed to succeed.

"My most important goal moving forward is to continue giving back to my community. I believe I have the honor and an obligation to invest in my community, specifically by serving as a mentor and providing financial assistance to other first generation students."

Denise currently lives and works in Waco, and she hopes to return to school to pursue her Master of Business Administration. The Bernard & Audre Rapoport McLennan Community College First Generation Scholars Program continues to help students like Denise. To learn more about this program, visit www.mclennan.edu/first-generation-scholars.

The Competition Begins: Now Accepting Nominations for 2015 Highlander Alumni and Friends Association Distinguished Awards

Each September, two outstanding alumni are recognized at the McLennan Community College Foundation's Scholar, Donor and Alumni Recognition event. The awards are given through a nomination and competition process during the spring and summer of each year. The two awards are:

- Distinguished Young Leader, recognizing a recent McLennan grad who was particularly active during his or her time at the college; and
- Distinguished Alumnus, for a McLennan grad who has pursued professional excellence and distinction after graduating from McLennan Community College.

Forms and information are now available online, and we encourage college employees and community members to please consider a special individual you would like to nominate for these prestigious awards. Forms are on the MCC Foundation website at www.mclennan.edu/foundation under "Quick Links and Resources." Please contact Jana Bland (jbland@mclennan.edu or 254-299-8481) at the McLennan Community College Foundation for more information.

Singing at McLennan Community College From Dr. Bonnie Sneed, McLennan Assistant Professor of Music*

The McLennan Community College Chorale prior to performing at an area high school.

The big news is THE CHOIRS ARE PLANNING TO GO TO EUROPE!!! Plans are underway to begin fundraising efforts for a choir tour of Vienna, Prague and Budapest for May 2016. This is a great way to celebrate the 50th anniversary of McLennan Community College in 2015-2016, and we will be contacting people who can help singers achieve their goals. If you would like to contribute to the European Tour, contact Harry Harelik (hharelik@mclennan.edu) or Bonnie Sneed (bsneed@mclennan.edu) for more information.

The Chorale has been busy performing at area high schools, giving concerts of great choral works and inviting high school students to sing in the college choir rehearsals on campus. This past fall the Chorale sang for choir students at Waco, Belton and Robinson high schools, and this semester they will be singing for Killeen, Copperas Cove and Gatesville. The December concert was performed at St. Mary's Catholic Church for over 500 people, and last year's Spring concert at St. Alban's Episcopal Church was sung to a packed house.

Of course, the operas, musicals and voice lessons are still going strong. If you know of talented singers who are looking for a great college music experience, please contact me (bsneed@mclennan.edu) with their information. We have up to 100% tuition-paid scholarships for singing in the choir. If a student was selected for All-Region choir in Texas (or a comparable experience out of state) and the singer completes a successful audition process, we have an automatic $500 scholarship for singing in the McLennan choir.

Help us by sending names and contact information of singers you know who would love to sing in the McLennan Choirs, and please don't forget to "LIKE" us on Facebook at "Sing at MCC."

*The Chorale has been conducted for the last three semesters by Dr. Bonnie Sneed. You can read about her on the McLennan Music webpage or visit her personal website (<https://sites.google.com/site/bbsneed4>). Last January she conducted her own adult choir in Carnegie Hall (Nave Voices) and received a Texas Resolution from Representative Charles "Doc" Anderson. She has also published a Bulgarian folksong through Earthsongs Publishing and has conducted the past two Decembers as part of the Waco Community Sing-A-Long Messiah concert at 7th and James Baptist Church. In addition, she sings with the St. Alban's Episcopal Church choir, which is conducted by McLennan adjunct instructor Howard Thompson.

Dr. Sneed is active as a solo and ensemble adjudicator. She can be found in almost all the regional high schools as a choral clinician, and she has teamed up with McLennan music instructor Lise Uhl to create the Music Student Association to act as a service and social organization of the music department. Dr. Sneed has also been working hard to create new recruiting publications, has created the "Sing at MCC" Facebook page and is now taking McLennan music students out to the area schools to observe other music teachers as part of their Choral Music Education training.

GETTING THE MOST BANG FOR YOUR TAX BUCK WITH CHARITABLE CONTRIBUTIONS

By Harry I. Harelik, Executive Director, MCC Foundation

Often, the largest gifts to charitable organizations (501(c)(3) nonprofit organizations) materialize through estates because at death, one no longer worries about cash flow. However, under the new estate tax laws, which exempt all estates up to slightly over $5 million, few estates are taxable and therefore, while charitable giving through estates is still essential for nonprofit financial survival, there is no longer a tax savings in most estates for those charitable gifts.

If one wants to make gifts to charity AND also would like a current income tax deduction (and tax savings), the gifts almost always must be made during one's lifetime. This could require some planning! Charitable gifts during life are accounted for through itemized deductions on one's income tax return. Every person or couple who files an income tax return has the choice of taking a deduction of the higher of actual itemized deduction (which includes charitable gifts) or the standard deduction. Itemized deductions may include medical expenses which exceed 10% of adjusted gross income (or if tax payer is 65 years old or more — 7% of adjusted gross income), property taxes, some types of interest expenses, state sales or income taxes, miscellaneous deductions which exceed 2% of adjusted gross income and, of course, charitable contributions. However, if the standard deduction exceeds the total of itemized deductions, then one would take the standard deduction to save more income tax. Available standard deductions are quite advantageous: For 2014, for instance, these were:

Joint/surviving spouse $12,400, Head of Household $9,100, Single or Married Filing Separate $6,200

For taxpayers whose itemized deductions don't exceed the standard deduction, charitable contributions won't affect income taxes because itemized deductions won't be used in the tax calculation. But one can plan timing charitable contributions to get a better result:

For instance, if the total itemized deductions, filing jointly, were at $11,800 without the charitable amount, and the charitable amount was generally $550 annually, then for 2014, the normal total with the charitable gifts would be $12,350, and not higher than the standard deduction. But if one were to "bunch" the charitable deductions for two years into one year, then the total itemized deductions would be $11,800 plus $550 (one year) plus $550 (second year) or $12,900. This would then exceed the standard deduction, and the taxpayer would have a little tax advantage. (The charitable contributions for year one could be made January 1st of year one and the charitable deductions for year two could be made December 31st of year one.)

Alternatively, the charitable contributions could be made directly at one time to a donor-advised fund at a community foundation (such as Waco Foundation) with directions to distribute to the charity in two separate years; the deduction is achieved in one year but the charity(ies) would receive the funding in two separate years. A little planning can help the tax situation, but timing of the deduction is only one part of the planning.

In what form the deduction can be made is another part of the planning. For instance, with the MCC Foundation, gifts can be made to: capital campaigns (such as the All-Steinway Campaign or the Health Professions Complex Campaign), the general endowed scholarship fund or a specific scholarship fund, the Professional Development Fund for staff and faculty, any of the special student travel study programs or even through the charitable gift annuity program.^{*} Donors can initiate an endowed fund in their own name or in honor of someone else, as well, and then contribute to that annually over a period of years to fund it.

Finally, if one decides not to give during life to the MCC Foundation and not to bequest something at death either, the donor can still "contribute" by directing his heirs to list the MCC Foundation as a charity of choice in the obituary and friends and family can donate to the MCC Foundation in memory of the donor. This won't cost the donor anything at all.

We are happy to work with all donors and/or their tax advisors on their gift and tax planning. Please call 254-299-8606 at any time for a no-obligation or cost discussion of your charitable gift planning.

^{*}(In the charitable gift annuity program, donors can reserve income for life from their gift at a high rate of return with any remaining funds, at donor death, going to a fund at the MCC Foundation. The present value of the charitable gift annuity can provide a current income tax deduction.)

VISUAL AND PERFORMING ARTS INITIATING SCHOLARSHIP FOR RETIRING PROFESSOR JERRY MACLAUHLIN

After 24 years at the helm of McLennan Community College choreography, Professor Jerry MacLauchlin (pictured left) is retiring in May 2015. The Visual and Performing Arts Division is initiating fundraising for the “Jerry MacLauchlin Musical Theatre Scholarship” with a goal of $20,000.

This scholarship will assist aspiring performers in Jerry’s name for many years into the future. You may support this new scholarship fund by sending checks directly to the McLennan Community College Foundation, earmarking them for the Jerry MacLauchlin Scholarship, or you may contribute online at www.mclennan.edu/foundation. For more information, contact Harry Harelik at 254-299-8606 or hharelik@mclennan.edu.
